Dear Chairman Martinez,

I have known Professor Donovan for over twenty years. As an undergraduate at Harvard, I was the General Manager of the Harvard Krokodiloes. The Krokodiloes performed for Professor Donovan at over thirty executive programs each year.

Upon graduation, I went to work for Professor Donovan at CTG as Executive Program Coordinator. I was in the classroom for fifty executive programs each year. I saw an outstanding teacher who inspired the executives, with the help of CTG employees, to develop remarkable solutions for their company problems. I witnessed many standing ovations for Professor Donovan and his team. Professor Donovan taught the participants and me to continue redefining a problem until we could solve it.

Professor Donovan helped many of his employees and classroom participants, including me, to reach lofty goals. He would often come tearing into his office with an idea of how to help someone and everyone on the staff had to drop everything until this idea was fully realized.

One remarkable characteristic of Professor Donovan cannot be overstated. He has mentored many young people and established strong relationships with them. I am just one example. I learned many skills from Professor Donovan. Other than Professor Donovan, I have never seen someone develop a rapport with an audience with 100% consistency. It didn't matter what country we were in or what the native language of the audience was. Professor Donovan's skill is communication and in that, he is non pareil. I have adapted many of his skills in my own performing both on stage as a musician and in the courtroom as a lawyer. It has helped to make me very successful.

Additionally, Professor Donovan has a sense of humor that will not quit. He never gives up. His tenacity is contagious. If you are looking for someone to inspire while teaching, Professor Donovan is your man.

Sincerely,
